Sports Collecting and History

Sports Memorabilia Show

Presented by

Steve Milam

Monday,

7:00pm

Steve Milam, well-known collector and appraiser will present a special program about sports collecting at Big Blue Country on Monday.

Steve has been an advanced collector of sports memorabilia for over 30 years. He does appraisals on sports collectibles around the city and the state for individuals, auction companies, and insurance companies. He is active in contributing to and running sports auctions for several charitable organizations in Louisville and Lexington. Steve has one of the most complete collections of UK sports memorabilia anywhere along with an extensive collection of other sports too. He will be bringing a number of his items to display to attendees.

During this very informal program, Steve will cover many topics including: what items are the most collectible; how to make sure items are authentic; what items have the most value and/or historical significance; what makes UK fans and collectors unique from all other college and professional teams; how Ebay has brought down the value of many items. Also, Steve has many interesting and entertaining stories to share from his first-hand meetings with many UK sports greats and legends from other sports, too.

Whether you are a collector now, or might be thinking about starting, or just want to see and hear about the rich history and tradition illustrated through collectibles, be sure to be on-hand for this special program.....and feel free to bring any items for "show and tell" or to discuss with Steve.

Witness the homecoming beatdown.
